Hi Jaime,

We will agree to this modification but we need to have a meet/confer tomorrow.

We expect that Droplets will be making a significant reduction to its 1400 exhibits and 40+ hours of deposition designations. At this point, Droplets should have no more than 700 exhibits. There is no possible way that Droplets can intend to present even remotely this many exhibits or that many hours of depositions.

Droplets refusal to drop the cookie-using products is disappointing and disturbing. Droplets and its counsel are forcing Yahoo to expend unnecessary resource in what is objectively a hopeless case on these products.

Kevin

Hi Alice,

Per the previously-agreed-to schedule, the parties are due to provide updated exhibit lists by end of day today, and then provide updated objections by tomorrow. Droplets proposes that the parties exchange updated exhibit lists by Friday and updated objections to exhibit lists by Saturday.

Please let us know if this is acceptable.

Best regards,
Jaime

Alice,

We propose that the parties agree to a Sunday 12pm PT/3pm ET deadline for all materials that were initially scheduled to be due today, including objections to deposition designations and discovery responses. Please let us know if Yahoo agrees.

Also, we propose that, rather than having separate meet and confers today and again on Tuesday, the parties confer about all issues on Tuesday. If Yahoo agrees, please provide suggested times for Tuesday.

Best regards,
Jaime

Hi Alice,

We can agree to a Sunday deadline for objections to the exhibit list, provided that the parties exchange their materials by 12pm PT/3pm ET. Please confirm that this works.

Best regards,

Jaime

Hi Jaime,

We propose that the parties agree to defer to Sunday the deadline to exchange objections to the respective exhibit lists. This will not impact the several other deadlines on Friday and should still give the parties time to review in advance of the meet and confer on Tuesday.

Please let us know if Droplets is amenable to this change.

Thank you,
